☐ the language of the translation furnished for the purposes of international preliminary examination (under Rule 55.2 and/or 55.3).

3. With regard to any nucleotide and/or amino acid sequence disclosed in the international application, the international preliminary examination was carried out on the basis of the sequence listing:

- ☐ contained in the international application in written form.
☐ filed together with the international application in computer readable form.
☐ furnished subsequently to this Authority in written form.
☐ furnished subsequently to this Authority in computer readable form.
☐ The statement that the subsequently furnished written sequence listing does not go beyond the disclosure in the international application as filed has been furnished.
☐ The statement that the information recorded in computer readable form is identical to the written sequence listing has been furnished.

4. ☐ The amendments have resulted in the cancellation of:

- ☐ the description, pages _____
☐ the claims, Nos. _____
☐ the drawings, sheets/fig _____

5. ☐ This report has been established as if (some of) the amendments had not been made, since they have been considered to go beyond the disclosure as filed, as indicated in the Supplemental Box (Rule 70.2(c)).

Inventive step (IS)	Claims	1-7	YES
	Claims		NO
Industrial applicability (IA)	Claims	1-7	YES
	Claims		NO

2. Citations and explanations

The problem addressed by the invention is that of providing an improved method for producing carotenoids that does not suffer from the technical disadvantages of previously known methods, as outlined in the introductory part of the description (see also EP-A-908 449 (document D1)), such as the difficulty of handling solid reaction partners.

The essential feature of the claimed method, which otherwise makes conventional use of Wittig or Wittig-Horner condensation, is the use of the dialkoxy dialdehyde of formula I (or Ia). This reactant can be advantageously used for carotenoid production via the intermediate product of formula IV (see claim 7), as indicated on page 8 of the description and illustrated in the examples.

The available prior art (document D1) contains no indications or suggestions that might have led in a simple and logical way to either the claimed method (claims 1 to 6) or the intermediate product of formula IV (claim 7).

The subject matter of the application therefore meets the requirements of PCT Article 33(2) to (4).
